

MFA Mussel Restoration Project – April 2021 Update

Cawthron Marlborough Environment Award

Our project won the marine category award at the Cawthron Marlborough Environment Awards last Friday. We met with the judges and shared the importance of the work we are doing, the great collaborative effort between marine farmers, scientists and the community, as well as the outcomes we are achieving with the project. This is an exciting opportunity for the project to receive recognition in the community and to share the work we are doing across other sectors.

As always, if you have any questions or comments on this project, please feel free to reach out to Emilee Benjamin via email at egol669@aucklanduni.ac.nz.
